Man Arrested for Recording Dozens of Victims in Secret Bathroom Videos August 12, 2020

In April 2020, Washington County Sheriff's Office detectives opened an investigation after learning a former Nike employee had secretly recorded dozens of men going to the bathroom.

Detectives found out 27-year-old Khoi Truong of Portland recorded at least 50 different men in 2017 and 2018. Mr. Truong worked in the Nike Air Manufacturing Innovation building on SW Terman Road, where all of the videos were made. The videos showed Mr. Truong used his cell phone to record the victims in the bathroom. There is no evidence of any hidden cameras involved in this case.

In November 2017 and April 2018, two separate victims saw Mr. Truong videotape them in the bathroom and reported each incident to their supervisors. Nike terminated Mr. Truong in 2018, but no one reported Mr. Truong's conduct to law enforcement at that time. Detectives only learned about what happened during an unrelated investigation in 2020.

During the past several months, investigators worked with Nike to try to identify the men in the videos, and were able to positively link 23 victims to this case.

On Friday, August 7, a Washington County grand jury indicted Mr. Truong on 10 counts of Invasion of Personal Privacy in the First Degree. Those 10 counts are representative of the full scope of Mr. Truong's conduct.

On August 12, 2020, detectives arrested Mr. Truong and he was lodged into jail, where his bail is set at $100,000.

There are dozens of additional victims in the videos who have not yet been identified. If you believe you are a victim or have information about this case, please call the Sheriff's Office at 503-846-2700.
